

REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN TEXT BOOK MAKES USUAL CLAIMS

Concluding Introduction With an Appeal For Public Support For Its Presidential and Congressional Candidates.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Aug. 14.—The tariff, prosperity, labor, wages and prices, trusts, Panama canal Cuban reciprocity, expansion and its results, investigations of postal and land frauds and punishments of offenders, rural free delivery, irrigation, the record of the Republican party, and the record of Theodore Roosevelt are the leading subjects discussed by the Republican campaign text book of 1904, which is about to be issued.

Following is the introduction to the book:

"Four important facts which justified the Republican party in making the support of the public of 1900 were:

First, that its pledges of 1896 had been redeemed; second, that prosperity had come as a result; third, that developments since '96 had shown the fallacy of the principles upon which Democracy then appealed for public support; and, fourth, conditions which had come to other parts of the world and their people as a result of promises fulfilled by the Republican party in the United States.

These assertions made in the text book of 1900 have been fully justified by the added experiences of another four years. Pledges of '96 and those made in 1900 have been redeemed.

The protective tariff has been restored; the gold standard made permanent; Cuba given independence, the Panama canal assured under the sole ownership and control of the United States; the department of commerce and labor established; rural free delivery given to millions of agricultural communities; laws for the proper regulation of trusts and great corporations strengthened and enforced; prosperity established; commerce developed; labor protected and given ample establishment and reward; intelligence, prosperity and good government established in distant islands and the flag of the United States made the emblem of honor in every part of the world.

All of these great accomplishments have been the work of the Republican party. In each of them it has met discouragement and hostilities of Democracy. It is on this additional evidence of the last four years, evidence that the Republican party is the party of progress and Democracy the party of inaction, retardment and fault-finding, that the Republican party again confidently appeals for public support of its presidential and congressional elections of 1904.

Following this introduction the book takes up in detail the subjects mentioned at the beginning of the foregoing.

And Lucas but before they caught the trail he departed again as mysteriously as he came.

The friends and relatives of Miss Rivers pretty generally supposed that she left to become the wife of Lucas, but since they have found no record of the marriage and have received no word from her, they are now inclined to think that she was the victim of foul play.

In this connection they recall the fate of Miss Louella Mabbitt, who was a few years ago lured away by a man and murdered.

AN ATTRACTIVE HOME

Is What Pleases the Children—Conscience in Family Necessary to Peace and Contentment.

I wonder if fathers and mothers realize the importance of making the home attractive so that the young people will be content to find their pleasures, as largely as possible, at home instead of abroad.

So many girls write that they meet their men friends in the street or at other friends' homes because they are not allowed to invite them to their own homes.

Now there is something radically wrong in this. Either the girls are deceiving their parents or the parents are making home so unattractive that the young people do not care to bring their friends to the home.

When a mother and daughter stand on the proper terms with each other there is a firm friendship underlying the natural love.

The mother, with the memory of her own girlhood days in mind, is not too severe on the faults and mistakes that the young daughter is sure to make.

And the daughter, sure of a ready sympathy and comprehension, is not afraid to confide in her mother.

The same rule applies with father and son.

Boys are so often afraid of their fathers. The latter are too severe; they magnify every fault until the boys are driven to deceit and avoid home as much as possible.

Most fathers love their sons, but they forget that they were once boys themselves, and that youth cannot be staid and wise and never kick over the traces.

Perfect confidence between father and son is quite as important as it is between mother and daughter.

The experience of the parents can help save the young people from so many mistakes.

Young girls are apt to form unwise friendships with both men and other girls.

Their judgment is not reliable, and many sad stories would never happen were some wiser judgment than the poor little heroine's brought to bear on the subject.

It is the duty of father, mother, brother, all, to take care of the young daughter of the house, and of the two former to know where the young son spends his evenings, what he does with his pocket money, etc.

When the home is made attractive the young people are quite content to stay there and bring their friends with them.

It does not cost money to make things bright and happy. A hearty welcome to the guests, music, if possible; games, and the happy knack of making the young people feel that their opinions are worth listening to, and that you are enjoying their company—that is the secret.

Mothers should remember that their daughters' matrimonial chances depend a good deal on the kind of homes they live in.

When a man calls on a girl and finds her in a bright, attractive home, with everybody happy and sweet about her, he naturally thinks "this is the kind of home I want; there is love between the parents and children; everything is comfortable and happy; it is the ideal home."

But if he meets a girl who is afraid to ask him to her home because her parents will not make him welcome he begins to wonder what is wrong, and whose fault it is, and rarely follows up the friendship.

Of course the boys and girls have just as much to do with the home-making. They must do their share toward the happy atmosphere.

The girl must help lift the burden of household cares from the mother's tired shoulders, and the boy must be a companion to and help the father with the responsibilities of keeping the home.

There is nothing in the world so lovely as a happy home.—Beatrice Fairfax, in Commercial-Appeal.

Hard Exercise for Jap Cadets. At the Naval Academy of Japan one hour is devoted daily to the most rigorous exercise, and naturally the sailors are a particularly hardy lot.

Secret Societies

The twenty-third day of June each year is designated as Royal Arcanum day and the fifth day of November each year as Royal Arcanum charter day.

The order's largest jurisdiction, New York, is near the 50,000 membership mark.

Under the leadership of Grand Regent Barbour the order in Missouri is moving ahead rapidly.

Philadelphia council of Philadelphia has 1,200 members and is the largest in Pennsylvania.

Treasurer Denman, Collector James R. Robinson and Secretary Irwin Walther have acted in their several capacities in Greensburg council of Pennsylvania for twenty-five, twenty-two and twenty years respectively.

Never be the last one to enter your council, but always get there in time to see the opening ceremonies.

MASONIC.

Knights Templars' Triennial Conclave—Chips From The Temple.

The Knights Templars' triennial conclave, to be held in San Francisco this year, will continue from Sept. 3 to Sept. 10 inclusive. The grand parade will have 12,000 knights in line, and at least forty bands will be in the procession. In the competitive drills no California commandery will compete. The five prizes are a complete punch set of silver and copper ornamented with Indian heads, bears, Indian weapons and scalp; a silver clock on a pedestal of California onyx; a silver fortress, with walls of California quartz, surmounted with a silver globe bearing a silver knight in full armor; a silver centerpiece for banquet table; a silver tray and wine cups.

The Knights Templars of California have raised a fund for the entertainment of the knights of $100,000. Already 12,000 have been quartered and room for more guaranteed.

The Masonic lodges of Utah had a total membership recently of 1,083, a net gain of sixty-eight during the past year.

At the recent annual convocation of the grand chapter of Maine reports showed 7,705 members, a gain of 418. William N. Howe of Portland was elected grand high priest.

The grand commandery of Kentucky elected Robert H. Burnam, Richmond, grand commander and John W. Landrum, Mayfield, deputy grand commander.

The Kentucky Old Masons' home has a dairy farm which cost $15,000 and makes the home self supporting.

The grand lodge of Cuba will not recognize the Grand Orient of France.

Recent reports show there are twenty-six commanderies in Kentucky, with a membership of 2,387, a net gain of 196.

W. F. Pierce has been elected grand commander of Knights Templars of California.

The grand master of Georgia decided that "a steward can resign and obtain his limit just like any other member. Only the master and wardens cannot resign."

UNITED WORKMEN.

The Order's New Rates—Chips From Various Jurisdictions.

The new rates adopted by the supreme lodge in 1903 enable a young man to carry $1,000 protection at a guaranteed cost of $18.12 per year up to fifty-five, and then reduce his cost for the balance of his life to $14.52 per year. From this point of view, that change we hear so much about looks pretty liberal to us.—Kentucky Workman.

Indiana Workmen have been active since the first of the year and now have 130 lodges and over 8,000 members.

The South Dakota jurisdiction has been forging ahead recently. There are about 15,000 members now in the state and 140 lodges.

The grand lodge of California has changed to biennial sessions. The lodge is a fraternal home. Every member belongs to this family. All must unite in making this home pleasant and enjoyable.

The supreme lodge will hereafter meet in biennial session. On June 1 the order had seventy-seven active lodges in Connecticut, with over 12,000 members in good standing.

The supreme lodge refused to increase the age limit of admission from forty-five to fifty-five.

An appropriation of $640 to maintain headquarters in the fraternal building at the St. Louis exposition was made by the supreme lodge.

Royal Neighbors of America. The Royal Neighbors of America have organized in Cleveland, O., and many camps will be instituted in that city this summer and fall.

Since Jan. 1 the order has been steadily moving ahead in Wisconsin, and that jurisdiction now has over 6,000 members.

The latest membership statement shows the Kansas jurisdiction has nearly 9,000 members.

Ladies of the Macabees. The L. O. T. M. of the World is a life beneficial organization under the exclusive management and control of women.

The order has a reserve fund of $800,000 and is established in every state and territory of the Union, paying monthly claims to the amount of $250,000.

CLEON GIQUELAI.

ward and soon became noble grand of the lodge and chief patriarch of the encampment. In 1890 he was admitted to the grand encampment and has served as grand junior warden, grand senior warden and grand high priest.

Mr. Gicquelais is also an active and prominent member of the grand lodge of Pennsylvania.

One strong evidence of the popularity of Odd Fellowship and the favorable sentiment created by the practical workings of the order is the large number of dropped members who are constantly seeking reinstatement.

The grand lodge of California decided that a lodge had the right to loan its funds on real estate.

Recent reports show a net gain in subordinate lodge membership in Illinois of 3,127 and Rebekah membership of 2,404.

There are 703 lodges in Indiana, a gain of ten for the year, with a membership of 68,745, a gain of 3,750. There was paid out for relief $239,392.19.

The Odd Fellows of Woodland, Cal., are erecting a $40,000 temple.

The Virginia Odd Fellow says there are some lodges which are composed of members, and others which are composed of Odd Fellows.

Ontario reports a gain during the past year of four lodges and a net gain of 1,964 members. Present membership 28,662.

In Germany, after three months' membership, during which he must have visited his lodge at least six times, a brother acquires the right to apply for the first degree. To acquire the rest of them he must visit his lodge at least four times in the meantime. One degree only can be conferred at a meeting.

The Knights of Pythias is indeed a young man's order. There are more young men in its ranks than in any other order in this country—proof positive of its excellent attractions. Its every tenet is to keep the young men perfect in their manhood, and to render them safe from the many pitfalls that line the pathway of life.—Carolina Pythian.

The order in New Mexico is steadily growing. At last report there were 1,200 Pythians in that grand domain.

Recent reports show a membership of 7,000 in the grand domain of Mississippi.

The latest report of the grand keeper of records and seal shows a membership of 6,000 in the grand domain of New Hampshire.

Georgia now has a D. O. K. K. temple. It was instituted recently in Atlanta.

Knights of Malta.

The Imperial Parent Grand Black encampment of the universe of Glasgow, Scotland, at its session recently eliminated the orange purple qualification from its laws.

The headquarters of the supreme and grand commanderies, in Philadelphia, will be greatly enlarged by the addition of a communicating room.

The Independent Order of the Western Star has a membership of about 15,000.

The Junior American Mechanics have increased over 15,000 in membership during the past year.

It has been well said that fraternal societies have been productive of more good within the last twenty years than any other product of modern civilization.

The Highland Nobles of Des Moines and the Columbian Circle of Tipton, Ia., have consolidated. The new order will retain the name of the Highland Nobles.

UNIQUE WAY OF REACHING FAIR

Queer Methods of Transportation Employed.

ECCENTRIC INCIDENTS

WONDERS OF THE GREAT EVENT SHOWN IN OUR SPLENDID EXPOSITION VIEWS.

Months ago a couple of chaps in Argentine heard that a prize of $15,000 was offered to the first one to traverse the three Americas on foot to visit the exposition. The two started out and, after reaching Central America one of them fell ill, but the other kept on and arrived at St. Louis only to find that no such prize had been offered—that he had been chasing a rainbow, only to find there was no pot of gold at its foot.

Some American citizens are also distinguishing themselves in this direction. An Illinois couple rode to St. Louis on a farm cultivator; an Iowa man is coming down the Mississippi river from Keokuk on a log; a California man walked from San Francisco leading a burro team which hauled his commissary wagon; from Pittsburgh some one came in a wagon drawn by oxen, while people from other points are coming in other unique and queer ways.

These are eccentric incidents of a great universal exposition, which, with other things, go to show that there is a widespread interest in the event; that it is an exhibition which people are bound to see, even if they have to resort to freak methods of reaching the gates.

After the fair closes there will still remain an ardent desire to learn all about it, and this can be accomplished in no better way than by securing the comprehensive pictorial and descriptive record of the event which is afforded in the Forest City series of views, which we are distributing among our readers.

The cost to our readers is merely nominal and it is only necessary to send or bring the little coupon printed in these columns with ten cents to secure each of the parts as they come out.

COWBOY FIRE FIGHTERS

rope was fastened, the other end being around the pommel of a cowboy's saddle. They dashed away to the line of fire, dragging the severed parts after them.

When the cowboys reached this two men would cross through the blaze. Tom tried it but his horse wheeled and turned away from the blaze, snorting loudly and in terror.

"Give me your end of the rope Tom," one of the other men said. "I can go over. Black Duncan will face it." And with a great plunge he cleared the line of fire.

One of the other two also crossed and without a moment's halt and with scorched faces they wheeled their horses and ran parallel with the fire dragging the bloody half of the beef over it, smothering the fire out as fast as their horses could run and drag the weight. One man was then on one side of the fire and the other on the opposite, each with his rope to the foot of a beef, straddling the blaze and beating out the greater part of it.

They wore slick duck jackets and leggings upon which the fire could not easily take hold. It was hot work, however. They could get only the length of their rope from the fire. The two men with the other half of the beef were going in the opposite direction, taking the other half of the line of fire. Suppose the fire was traveling south and the line extended east and west, fast receding from each other and every moment widening the black streak which marked the trail of the smothered flames.

While these four men were getting ready to do this work other cowboys were sitting on their horses near by, their faces lit up by the burning glare and cheering their companions who were crossing the fire line to fight the main battle.

Those, however, who were idle had their work to do. Each held a rolled sledge in his right hand and when the breach was made in the fire line they divided their forces and followed the boys who were sweeping the flames in order to extinguish effectually any which might be left.

Before the plan described was put in practice wagons loaded with water and tow sacks were run to a fire and the boys had to dismount and fight the flames with wet sacks. They were supplied with these by men galloping back and forth between the wagons and fire fighters.

Hats and Holy Communion.

An English vicar writes in his parish magazine: "The fashion of ladies' hats, as regards circumstance, renders it somewhat difficult to administer the chalice to them in holy communion. The best is bent low, and thus the whole face is hidden by the hat. It is beyond the power of possibility for the priest to know whether the sacred element is received or not."

AMUSEMENTS.

Daniel Sully the actor, tells an amusing story of the time he ran away from home to be a "show actor."

"There was an old Irish lady named Mrs. Donovan, who lived next door, and was very religious," said Mr. Sully. "She used to try to console my mother by telling her that I was 'in the hands of the Devil' and it would only be a short time before I was hanged or sent to prison for life. On my first visit home as the star of 'The Corner Grocery' my townspeople met me at the depot with a band and a carriage, and my mother and I rode proudly up the street following her band. As we neared the corner at the main street, there stood Mrs. Donovan. My mother's heart swelled with pride and she called out to her at the top of her voice: 'Does this look like my boy Dan's gone to hell?'"

Minister Tower's Own Pun.

While on his way to Germany some time ago Mr. Charlesmagne Tower, United States minister to that country, fell into conversation with a very intelligent lady, who was planning to make a tour of several European countries. She spoke with much enthusiasm of her intended trip up the Rhine.

Among the many places of historic interest where she expected to spend some time was Aix-la-Chapelle.

"I want," said she, "to visit the towers in the Charlemagne Cathedral there—the Charlemagne towers, as I call them—where the famous relics are kept."

"And when," said the diplomat, handing his card to the lady, who did not yet know who he was, "you go to Berlin, visit the one there."

The Need of the Day.

A preacher in the Isle of Man, discoursing upon Bunyan and his works, said: "In these days, my brethren, we want more bunnions."

50 PER CENT OF THE ADULT POPULATION SUFFER FROM ONE PAINFUL AILMENT.

Think what this means. Imagine the amount of misery that exists and is endured simply because people do not know there is an absolute cure.

The only way to cure any complaint is to remove the cause. There are very few diseases of ailments that can be cured by external application—and piles is not one of them. Piles can be cured the treatment must, however, be internal, for the cause of piles is an internal disorder of the liver or the bowels. Even catarrh of the stomach and bowels can be cured by Dr. FERRIN'S PILE SPECIFIC. The Internal Remedy. Here is an instance of what this practically infallible remedy will do:

Dr. C. A. Perrin, Helena, Mont.—Dear Sir: I have nearly finished the former bottle of Perrin's Pile Specific and am practically well. My case was one which most physicians would have pronounced incurable, as I was afflicted with a dysentery and compelled to go to the toilet room from three to five times each day and each time would bleed from one-half to one teaspoonful. I had to resort to bandages and absorbent cotton to check the flow of blood, and now the past ten or twelve days there has been no sign of bleeding and my appetite is good. I have gained ten pounds in weight and feel like a new lease of life was given me.

Very truly yours,
T. R. HARRIS,
October 20th, 1902, Yerington, Nev.

Dr. Perrin's Pile Specific is sold by all reliable druggists at $1.00 the bottle, under an absolute guarantee to refund the money should this great internal remedy fail to cure.

GRAND ARMY

Will Open Its National Encampment Monday at Boston—Largest in Many Years.

By the Associated Press.

Boston, Aug. 14.—The national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, with its several affiliated bodies, will open in Boston tomorrow, and is expected to be one of the largest in recent years.

The city is extensively decorated. Commander-in-chief Black arrived at the encampment headquarters this afternoon.

Meetings and reunions will continue until Saturday. The feature of the week will be the parade of Grand Army Tuesday, when it is expected thirty thousand veterans will be in line.

TWO COACHES

Derailed By a Broken Flange Killing One Man and Injuring Forty Other Persons.

By Associated Press.

Nashville, Aug. 14.—W. S. Purnell of Knoxville, was killed and forty persons were injured in a passenger wreck on the Tennessee Central railroad today.

A west-bound passenger train from Knoxville to Nashville was making the descent of Silver Point Hill between Buffalo Valley and Silver Point, when the flange of a wheel on the rear car broke, derailing the last two coaches.

One of them was turned over and both were wrecked. All the injured will recover.

FAIRY STORY

From Tennessee of the Finding of Graves of Prehistoric Race of Midgets.

Sparta, Tenn., Aug. 14.—Natives of White county have discovered the graves of what seems to have been a prehistoric race of midgets.

Several miniature tombs have been opened and farmers during the past year have plowed through them, always unearthing small skeletons rarely over two feet in length. The skulls measure the size of an ordinary coconut and men of learning who have examined them declare that no one but a person who had reached the age of maturity could have owned such skulls.

Graves from which the small skeletons have been taken are usually lined with a marble-like sarcophagus, and rarely more than two feet in depth. The massiveness of the stone grave adds to the mystery as to how a race of little people could possibly have moved such weight.
